

Samuel Hammerman, MD, MMM, CPE, FCC

Dr. Hammerman is the CMO, LTAC Hospital Division, and Chief Quality Officer, for Select Medical. He has an extensive background in pulmonology and critical care medicine and recently served as director of pulmonary and critical care medicine for Geisinger Health System. At Geisinger Wyoming Valley Hospital, he led innovation initiatives focusing on patient centered clinical care, operations, quality and safety, and education. He was also previously employed by the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center and its Magee Women's Hospital. Earlier in his career, he was in private practice in Pennsylvania and Maryland, specializing in pulmonary and critical care medicine.

A frequent lecturer and published author, Dr. Hammerman is a member of the American College of Physician Executives and the Society of Critical Care Medicine. He has also served as a governor (Commonwealth of Pennsylvania) of the American College of Chest Physicians. He currently serves as an adjunct clinical assistant professor at Temple University School of Medicine and continues to actively practice critical care in Northeast Pennsylvania.

Dr. Hammerman is a graduate of the Medical University of South Carolina and completed a postdoctoral fellowship in pulmonary and critical care medicine at Boston University Medical Center. He earned his master's degree in medical management (MMM) from Carnegie Mellon University and his bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland. He recently completed requirements to become a Certified Physician Executive.